Senior Seminar in Labor Studies helps connect the Labor Studies major to a career path. The course content, specifically, the required readings, will help students gain a better understanding of how organizational structures affect the nature and quality of careers. Students will assess personal knowledge, skills and abilities and gain insight into personal goals and objectives. A project incorporating informational interviews will be shared in-class via student presentations and will help establish preliminary professional networks to help the graduate connect with their field of interest. Two exams, assignments, quizzes, written essays and class participation will combine to demonstrate the student’s success in the mastery of course objectives.

Important: Students are expected to retain all handouts to prepare to pass both mid term exams.

Course Goals and Objectives:
- Students will gain a better understanding of how organization structures affect the nature and quality of careers.
- Students will conduct investigative research, which demonstrates originality, depth of thought and mastery of an approved style of source documentation.
- Students will communicate meaningfully in writing, with a chosen audience, while implementing critical thought.
- Students will speak clearly and effectively in standard English.
- Students will logically and persuasively state and support their points of view or findings.
- Students will demonstrate competency in office productivity tools appropriate to continuing their education.
- Students will use critical thinking skills for computer-based access, analysis, and presentation of information.
- Students will demonstrate the skills required to find, evaluate and apply information to solve a problem.

Course Learning Outcomes:
- Students will be able to assess personal knowledge, skills and abilities and gain insight into personal goals, objectives, and transferable skills.
- Students will learn what their strengths and talents are and those characteristic to the Labor Studies’ major to market to employers.
- Students will become aware of aspects of work, in general, and issues such as work life balance and how it relates to their own lives.
- Students will develop a professional resume.
- Students will develop an understanding about interviewing, cover letters and salary negotiations.
- Students will master the skill of developing informal and formal networks.

Bring the scheduled books or reading assignments with you to each class. We will use them for in class assignments. This counts towards active participation in class, hence, towards your participation grade (20%). Please note that just showing up, does not constitute participation.

4. Resume. If you need additional help with your resume, contact Rutgers' Career Services at http://careerservices.rutgers.edu/.
5. INFORMATIONAL INTERVIEW PROJECT DIRECTIONS
   a) Using what you have learned from the readings as a foundation, construct relevant interview questions for 2 different people who hold positions you would like to obtain one day.
   b) Interview these 2 people.
   c) Class Presentation Project - students will be assigned a presentation date.
      I) you will be expected to give a 10 minute in-class presentation of what you discovered during your informational interviews.
      II) Hand in your 3 page interview summary in the following format and not in question and answer style. See paper example on Page 4 of this syllabus. The paper must be typed, double spaced and in paragraph form, incorporating and citing specific concepts and details from the readings AND the answers to your questions from both individuals.
      III) Also answer the following questions  when writing up your summary:
         ☞ What issues were relevant to you, i.e., work life balance, geography, commute, salary, required education? ☞ Did the positions these people hold match up to your expectations?
         ☞ How so? If not, how did they differ? ☞ Do you still want to pursue a career in this field?

SAMPLE PARAGRAPH FOR FINAL PAPER

(Introduction statement or supporting statement -->) Bolles states that networking is one of the best ways to secure employment. (What you discovered during interview -->) In my interview with Mr. Jones, when I inquired about networking, he said he also thought that it was an important element in gaining access to not only the interview, but to also successfully land the job (Bolles 75). (<-- Cited Source) When I asked Ms. James' for an opinion on this, she stated that, in fact, she became aware of her current position through networking. In employing the principles of networking, I found that the three informational interviews could lead to possible future employment opportunities. In fact, during my interview with Ms. James', she mentioned that the sales department at her firm may be hiring a new management trainee.

Bill Denton believed that "face time" was important to prove your loyalty to the job (Hochschild 33). (<-- Cited Source) Yet Vickie, the administrative mother, felt "face time" was insignificant. Because I value spending time with my family, striving to become a partner in a law firm is something I would not consider.

Class participation is mandatory to pass the class! - This includes in-class and homework assignments. Just showing up does not constitute participation. You must actively participate in class activities.

*In order for students to get the most out of this course, attendance and effective participation are required. If students cannot attend class, they should notify the instructor by email. Students are expected to complete all discussion questions for the weekly readings assigned. Students are expected to bring all books and/or readings, or both, to each class. These will be a vital part of the group work performed in class.

ALL ASSIGNMENTS AND PAPERS should be typed and double spaced. Students will be expected to observe University Regulations on Academic Integrity.

AVOID PLAIGARISM. See page 4 for the paper format example combining class theories extracted from all readings (cited) with what you discovered from your interviewed candidates. This is done with introductory or supporting sentences from the texts, followed by your findings. Cite all sources.
