Course Description: This class will introduce the important developments and themes in the U.S. labor movement from the end of Reconstruction (1877) to the present day. The approach will center on the historical shifts that influenced the decisions that American workers and management have made, with an emphasis on understanding the function of trade unions as central workplace institutions and the role of collective bargaining. By focusing on the rise, decline and the contemporary debate over the reframing of trade unions in the United States, students will be introduced to some of the main organizations and figures that have shaped the labor movement, while also learning about how U.S. citizens have responded more broadly to the nature of the workplace in political, social and cultural terms.

Please note that this course also meets the writing distribution requirement for the School of Arts and Sciences. In addition to developing your own writing skills through writing successive drafts, you will learn to provide constructive feedback to other students’ writing. As part of the writing component, the class has two additional instructors, Dr. Kay Lynch and Jennifer Zachary, who will facilitate writing instruction in the class, coordinate peer review sessions on designated days, and assess final writing projects. At the conclusion of the course, students should demonstrate an increase in their knowledge and skills in writing/revising academic essays. Specifically, student should be able to

- enter into a dialogue with specialists in a particular field of study,
- read essays and extract and explain key points and terms,
- organize a paper from thesis, to topic sentence, to conclusion,
- interact with texts by using meaningful citations in their papers,
- use a range of sentence structures, and
- write meaningful, clear, and organized papers.
- thesis development
- logic and organization
- tone, vocabulary, and spelling

Learning Objectives: The following leaning objectives of the course are based on Rutgers University’s “Permanent Core Curriculum Learning Outcome Goals” (May 2008) and relate to the overall objective of a liberal arts education. “A Rutgers SAS graduate will be able to:”

_In the history and social science of the core:_

H. Understand the basis and development of human and societal endeavors across time and place.
K. Explain the development of some aspect of a society or culture over time.
L. Employ historical reasoning to study human endeavors
M. Understand different theories of human culture; social identity, economic entities, political systems, and other forms of social organization.

_In the writing and communication area of the core:_

S1: Communicate complex ideas effectively, in standard written English, to a general audience.
S2: provide and respond effectively to editorial feedback from peers and instructors/supervisors through successive drafts.
T: Communicate effectively in modes appropriate to a discipline or area of inquiry.
U: Evaluate and critically assess sources and use conventions of attribution and citation correctly.
V: Analyze and synthesize information and ideas from multiple sources to generate new insights.

Course Participation Guidelines

_Class attendance:_ You are expected to attend each class session, and to be on time. An attendance sheet will be passed out during each class; it is your responsibility to sign the sheet. Be punctual and plan to stay for the entire class. Students who repeatedly arrive late and leave at break will have their grades lowered. If you need to leave early, see me before class; otherwise you are expected to remain until the class is over.

_Participation:_ This class will utilize a variety of formats, with weekly discussion sessions one of the more important of these. You are expected to have completed the readings assigned before coming to class each week and be ready to take an active role in these discussions. Class participation includes active, respectful listening and well as talking. Cell phones and other electronic devices must be turned off during class. This includes laptops. I also ask that you do not use any recording devices in this class.

The class may also have periodic, unannounced quizzes based upon assigned readings. These grades will be evaluated as part of the overall participation grade.

_Missed Exams:_ All students are expected to take the scheduled in-class exams (midterm and final) at the designated times.
All writing assignments will be collected at the beginning of class the day they are due. This also applies to the first draft and peer review sessions. Out of respect to those who meet this expectation, late papers will be subject to downgrading. Unless otherwise specified, it is expected that hardcopies of the paper be handed in, rather than by email attachment.

Disability Statement: This course is open to all students who meet the academic requirement for participation. Any student who has a need for accommodation based on the impact of disability should refer to the Rutgers Office of Disability Services and then contact the instructor privately to discuss the specific situation as soon as possible.

Statement on Academic Freedom: Freedom to teach and freedom to learn are inseparable facets of academic freedom. This class will introduce an array of sometimes conflicting ideas and interpretations of U.S. history, and all who partake in the course should feel encouraged to express their views in an open, civic forum.

Sakai: Additional course readings will be placed on the class Sakai site. I will also occasionally post emails to the class concerning our activities from week to week. Please let me know immediately if you have any difficulties logging onto this website.

eCompanion: This course uses the web-based classroom management system for the turning in and evaluation of writing assignments. You will use eCompanion to do the following: 1) upload your drafts and final papers into doc sharing under your assigned group; 2) review your instructor’s comments on your papers; 3) interact with the writing teachers and access instructions about revision, editing, and proofreading. Note: at the beginning of class, you will be assigned to groups. When you upload your papers, they should be placed in the group to which you were assigned, i.e., Group A, Group B, Group C.

Required Book. The following required book is available for purchase at the Rutgers University Bookstore operated by Barnes and Noble. It may also be purchased online.

Required Online Readings: In addition to the required book, all required excerpted readings are available through eCompanion. They will be posted as PDF files.

The online readings compliment the material in the text. Some of the online readings are primary sources and will be noted as such on the syllabus. Other online readings are secondary sources—commentaries and historical analysis provided after the events have taken place.
Primary Sources and some of the secondary readings are from the following books:

Grading/Evaluation:

- Midterm 1: 15%
- First Paper: 20%
- Second Paper: 25%
- Participation: 15%
- Final Exam: 25%

Week 1, January 23: Introductions, Overview and a Brief Review of Early U.S. Labor History

Readings: Course Syllabus
Labor History timeline

In class skit: Artisan Republicanism in the Early American Republic

Week 2, January 30: A Polarized Society: Industrial Capitalism And Worker Organizations in the Gilded Age (1877-1893)

Who Built America? Chapter 1, 23-49, 70-71; Chapter 2, 77-79, 91-120

Film except: The River Ran Red

Week 3, February 6: The Triumph of Industrial Capitalism at Home and Abroad (1893-1900)

Readings: Who Built America? Chapter 3, 124-157, 167-174
“Statement from the Pullman Strikers,” 234-236

First Draft of Paper 1 due in class: Peer Review Sessions
Week 4: February 13: Reform and Radicalism in the Progressive Era (1900-1914)

Frederick Winslow Taylor Explains..., 205-209
Machinists Testifies on the Taylor System, 83-85
Lawrence Textile Strike, 272-277

Film: The Wobblies

Final Draft of Paper 1 collected at beginning of class.

Week 5, February 20: World War One and the Lean Years for American Workers (1914-1929)

Two anti-war speeches by Eugene V. Debs, 294-298
“O’Connor on the Seattle General Strike,” 151-156
“Steel Mill Worker in 1921,” 132-135

Week 6, February 27: Midterm Exam

Week 7, March 6: The Great Depression and the first New Deal, 1929-1935

Readings: Who Built America?, Chapter 8, 391-439

In Class presentation: Labor and the Arts of the 1930s.

Week 8, March 13: Labor Upsurge; the Industrial Union Movement and the second New Deal 1935-1939

Readings: Who Built America? Chapter 9, 445-491
“Adamic on the sit-down strike” and “Dollinger Remembers the Flint Sit-down Strike,” 345-349

Week 9, March 20: Spring Break
Week 10, March 27: Working People and World War Two, 1939-1946

In-Class Presentation: The Music of Woody Guthrie

First Draft of Paper 2 due in class: Peer Review Sessions

Week 11, April 3: The Cold War Boom and the Social Compact 1946-1960

Fortune Magazine on labor unions.

Film: On the Waterfront

Final Draft of Paper 2 collected at beginning of class.

Week 12, April 10: The Rights Conscious 1960s and the Rise of Public Sector Unionism

Honey, “Martin Luther King, Jr. and the Memphis Sanitation Strike,” 420-431

Film: At the River I Stand

Readings: Who Built America? Chapter 13, 683-729
“Interview with Local P-9 leaders,” 523-529

Film: American Dream

Week 15, May 1: Discussions on the Twenty-first Century Labor Movement

Paper topics: Papers should be three pages, double-spaced and adhere to standard grammar and punctuation.

Paper One: How did the rhetoric of the late nineteenth century labor movement tap into predominant understandings of American democracy?

Paper Two: Explain the reasons for the advancements of the labor movement in the United States during the New Deal period.