General Objectives: In recent years, the field of alternative dispute resolution ("ADR") has grown dramatically for resolving a wide range of conflicts, including those that arise in the workplace. As the role of unions in the workplace has declined, many non-union employers have opted to provide their employees with a forum to resolve disputes that otherwise would go unresolved or would require lengthy and expensive litigation. As a result, grievance and other ADR procedures, long used in the unionized sector, have increased exponentially in the non-union sector. This course will explore the reasons for workplace conflict and compare the types of dispute resolution procedures that are used in both the union and non-union workplaces.

The first half of the course primarily examines dispute resolution in the non-union workplace while the second half explores the processes used to resolve disputes in the union sector. Although the class is focused on processes that are used to resolve labor and employment disputes there will also be an emphasis on substantive laws and collective bargaining agreements that are the source of many conflicts. In addition, a small portion of the course will be dedicated to comparing the use of transferable dispute resolution skills, such as those facilitated by neutrals in Conciliatory Processes (Mediations, Conciliations, Fact-Findings, & Arbitrations). Some background and knowledge of employment or labor law is useful but not required.

The class will also include a focus on communication and negotiating skills that are beneficial regardless of your major or career path. We spend nearly a third of our lives at work and experience a variety of workplaces, supervisors and co-workers who have different methods of addressing or avoiding conflict. Dispute resolution skills are also beneficial in our everyday lives where disagreements may range from selecting a place to go to dinner to serious interpersonal conflicts.

Format: The class will be comprised of lecture, group work and videos. In addition, a labor arbitration simulation will be assigned where students will experience what it is like to analyze a case and to write an award and opinion as a labor arbitrator.

Readings: There is no textbook required. Readings will be posted on Sakai.
Class Preparation: Class will include lectures, small group discussions, simulations and in-class assignments. Student participation is very important in this class and therefore you are expected to:

- read the assigned material before class and be prepared to discuss it.
- attend, participate and be on time for every class. Because dispute resolution skills are developed throughout the course, attendance is very important.
- be familiar with the University’s Policy on Academic Integrity and follow it: http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu

Absences: Attendance is required. Please report any absence in advance unless you have a sudden and unexpected illness or emergency. You are expected to email me at the address listed above, prior to any anticipated absences. In the event that an emergency occurs, it is your responsibility to obtain the class notes, lectures, and assignments from a classmate. I would encourage each one of you to exchange contact information with a colleague in class, so if an emergency does arise, you already have someone that you can rely upon for the missed information.

Class Participation: In-class meetings will include class discussions and readings. You are encouraged to exert your own views, and participate in class discussions as much as possible. However, as with any successful dispute resolution, YOU MUST BE TOLERANT & RESPECTFUL OF YOUR CLASSMATES OPINIONS. If you cannot have a conversation without offending those around you, achieving mutual admiration and resolution is an impossibility.

Communications: I will communicate class announcements via Sakai or email. If you need to reach me email is the best method (abagliore.perc@gmail.com).

Grades: For purposes of grading there are four components of the course:

1. Attendance, class participation, individual and group assignments. (25%)
2. One in class mid-term exam. (30%)
3. A mock-arbitration exercise with the grade based upon an arbitration opinion and award in a case involving an employee who was suspended from work. (20%)
4. A final exam concentrating on material covered during the second half of the semester but also including processes/principles from the first half of the semester. (25%)

Office Hours: By Appointment Only. However, I strongly urge any student to speak to me during class breaks, after class, or to contact me to discuss any matter or interest relating to this course.
