

RUTGERS SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT AND LABOR RELATIONS

J. Robert Beyster Fellowships
Louis O. Kelso Fellowships
Other Related Fellowships

FURTHER INFORMATION ON APPLICATIONS: Applications for the Fellowships are for 2017-2018 academic year and are due on December 31, 2016. The fellowships are for the study of employee stock ownership, profit sharing, gain sharing, and broad-based stock options and grants of equity compensation in the corporation and in society, and the idea and practice of broadened ownership of capital and economic democracy in the United States. They are open to PhD candidates and post-doctoral scholars with an interest in teaching and researching the U.S. Stipends are for $25,000, $12,500, or $10,000 and are awarded to the individual scholar at the scholar's home university. If the scholar wishes, there is an option for residency at the Rutgers University School of Management and Labor Relations during the period of the fellowship which can be a variable period between July 1, 2017 and June 30, 2018. A small number of $5000 and smaller research grants are also awarded to those who do not secure fellowships. Applicants are considered for all relevant fellowships. The fellowship stipend can be used for research, travel, or living expenses. For information, please email:

How To Apply

Applicants must submit the following information by email or letter by December 31, 2016: 1) A statement of no more than 1500 words describing their proposed research project including its current status and broader significance; 2) A curriculum vitae; 3) Three letters of reference (submitted separately by email by the recommenders). Please note that applicants are responsible for confirming the completeness of their application file by the deadline. Kelso Fellow applicants should specifically address the relevance of their research to Kelso's general body of work and the questions that Kelso addressed.

Address: Search Committee, Beyster Fellowships or Kelso Fellowships, Rutgers University, School of Management and Labor Relations, Levin Building Room 216, 94 Rockefeller Road, New Brunswick, New Jersey 08854.

Recipients will be announced by March 15, 2017. Note: Doctoral students and post-doctoral scholars interested in the area may contact the Fellowship Program before applying in order to identify the range of research questions that are emerging in the different disciplines of the humanities and social sciences in this area and, where applicable, datasets that have become available for quantitative study or archival research that can be used by research scholars in their own particular research.
