Conflict and Conflict Resolution in the Workplace (7/29/11)
Rutgers University School of Management and Labor Relations
Course No: 37:575:312
Fall 2011

Instructor: Felice Busto (Phone: 732 776-6507; email: fbusto@rcn.com)
Time: Thursdays 6:00-8:40 p.m
Location: ACCC

Objectives: Over the last decade, the field of alternative dispute resolution ("ADR") has grown dramatically in resolving all types of conflicts. As the role of unions in the workplace has declined, non-union employers have moved to provide their employees with a forum to resolve disputes. As a result, grievance and other ADR procedures, long used in the unionized sector, have increased exponentially in the non-union sector. This course will explore the reasons for workplace conflict and compare the types of dispute resolution procedures that are used in both the union and non-union workplaces.

The first half of the course examines dispute resolution in the non-union sector and the second half explores the processes used in the union sector. Although the class is focused on processes that are used to resolve labor and employment disputes there will also be an emphasis on substantive laws and collective bargaining agreements that are the source of many conflicts. Some background and knowledge of employment or labor law is useful but not required.

The class will also include communication and negotiating skills that are beneficial regardless of your major or career path. We all spend a third of our lives at work and experience a variety of workplaces, supervisors and co-workers who have different methods of addressing or avoiding conflict. Dispute resolution skills are also beneficial in our everyday lives where disagreements run the gamut of where to go to dinner to serious interpersonal conflicts.

Format: The class will be comprised of lecture, group work, videos and online forum discussions. In addition, there will be a "hands on" employment mediation exercise and a mock grievance arbitration that students will present in teams before a labor arbitrator.

Readings: There is no textbook required. Readings will be posted online at https://sakai.rutgers.edu/portal

Class Preparation: Class will include lectures, small group discussions, simulations and in-class assignments. Student participation is very important in this class and therefore you are expected to:
Attend and be on time for class (cell phones turned OFF—no texting or emailing is permitted during class). Because the skills for mediation and arbitration are developed throughout the course, attendance is very important!

- Read the assigned material before class and be prepared to discuss;

- Students are expected to be familiar with the University’s Policy on Academic Integrity and follow it: http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu

Absences: Please report any absence in advance unless you have an unexpected illness or emergency. Absences should be reported by using the university absence reporting website https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra to indicate the date and reason for your absence. An email will be automatically sent to me.

- If you absent try to obtain notes from a classmate; Get the email address of a classmate in case you need to find out about a homework assignment; if you will be absent email the assignment so that it is timely—late homework will NOT be accepted;

NOTE: Attendance is mandatory for the mock mediation and arbitration exercises as they are dependent on the collaboration of all team members.

Class Participation

- In-class meetings will include class discussions and group activities—explain your views but listen and consider the views of others. Diversity of views and opinions are strongly encouraged. If it is difficult for you to speak up in class, try your hand in the smaller groups.

The online forums will allow you to participate in threaded discussions. Your comments should be based on your understanding of the readings, videos, and your own experience. Because our class is premised on conflict resolution at work, your work experience will prove valuable in understanding and applying communication and conflict resolution strategies and processes.

Communications

I will communicate class announcements via email. If you need to reach me email is the best method. I am an adjunct faculty member and arbitrate and mediate during the day but I will do my best to get back to you as soon as possible.

Course Evaluation
For purposes of grading there are five components of the course:

1. Attendance, class participation, and in-class individual and group assignments (20%). Homework will be graded with check, check plus or check minus.

2. Online Threaded Discussions (Forums 1-6). (15%) (There will be a handout that explains the online forum portion of the class and how you will be graded).

3. One mid-term take home exam (25%)

4. A mock-arbitration exercise—a team grade based upon your group’s preparation and presentation of a grievance involving a terminated employee. (15%)

5. A take home final concentrating on material covered during the second half of the semester but also including processes/principles from the first half of the semester. (25%).
