Course Description

This course reviews the theories and practice of corporate governance. Among the topics covered are: the history of the corporation, boards of directors, the division of profit sharing and various forms of employee ownership and equity ownership among insiders, regulation, shareholder activism, the impact of takeovers and mergers and acquisitions on governance, ethical issues such as conflicts of interest and insider trading, international corporate governance, and policy developments likely to impact the corporation. It provides an introduction to the scientific evidence regarding corporate governance practices and economic performance. Each lecture will begin with the history and development of the topic under consideration. Cases and examples will be presented during the lectures and for team discussion. Special attention is paid in each session to the role of the human resource management professional and the implications for the field of human resource management.

Readings

Note: Student subscription forms for the term will be available at the first class. This is recommended but not required.

Empirical studies on corporate governance for student research summaries, as assigned. Major web sites for empirical studies on corporate governance will be provided. All readings will be available on Sakai.

Approach

The lectures will not review the readings. They will be an opportunity to clarify the readings with questions and discussion. They will mainly cover additional material in the context of explaining the major points of the readings. Thus, it is important to do a close reading of all required class materials. A powerpoint covering the notes for each lecture will available on Sakai before each class and you should print it out and bring it to class for additional note-taking. Students will receive instruction and coaching on the use of a variety of on-line resources relevant to the topic. Students will do several research summaries of empirical studies as a basis for discussion in the class. Each class will include a lecture, ample time for questions, a team meeting on a specific question or case, and, in some classes, a film or visitor to talk about a particular case or problem. Class participation will count for 30% of the entire grade and will be taken very seriously in this class so please try to ask questions and make comments on a regular basis. A roll will be taken at each class. It is your responsibility to sign the roll. Students may be excused from one class. Because of the limited number of sessions, you should be sure that you can attend the classes. Students will be asked to do reading of relevant research papers and to hand in summaries that they present.
Evaluation and Grading

The 100 points in a grade will be distributed as follows: 32% final paper (a 15 page paper and a powerpoint presentation), 28% mid-term report (a seven page paper and a powerpoint presentation), 5% for handing in satisfactory research summaries and proposals on reports and final paper, 5% for the presentations, and 30% class participation including attendance. Grades will be distributed as follows: A+: 98-100, A: 95-97, A-: 92-94, B+: 88-91, B: 85-84, B-: 80-84, C+: 76-75, C: 73-75, C-: 70-72. Failing grade: Below 70. Students may miss one class without any effect on their grade. Students who miss more than three classes will receive an incomplete and have to make up the work. Plagiarism, including the use of other student’s work or “purchased papers” or electronically available papers constitutes a serious violation of the ethical standards for the University and this class and will result in a failing grade for the class and disciplinary action by the School upon the recommendation of the professor. ALL PAPERS WILL BE CHECKED THROUGH turnitin.com in order to evaluate whether sources were used that were not properly cited. If a student misses more than three classes that student will not receive credit for the class as part of the professor’s grade.

Office Hours and Consultations

The instructor will be available for office hours for 1/2 hour immediately preceding class and following the class meeting until the last student has left in order to assist you in solving course-related problems or discussing issues related to your studies and career. There will also be a 10 minute mid-session break for each class in which you can also consult the professor. Extended office hours will be scheduled for consultation on the mid-term book report. Students can also make appointments with the instructor in class or by email if these times are not suitable. The instructor will schedule a second set of office hours if there is more student demand.

Classroom Conduct

It is important for a serious learning experience to have a quiet and respectful environment in the classroom. The following will not be permitted in class: a. cell phones, pagers, and text messaging devices which should be turned off and put away out of sight; b. computers should be turned off and put away; c. napping; d. chit-chatting; e. reading the newspaper; f. studying for or doing homework for other courses; g. arriving at class late on a consistent basis; h. leaving class early on a consistent basis.; i. e. other behavior that disrupts the learning environment. When you do any of these things it is hard to argue you are participating in class and points will be deducted from your participation score.
