Course Overview: This course will provide an analysis of legislation designed to protect the working and living standards of American workers and its implementation by government agencies. The course will cover major issues in employment law, including anti-discrimination laws, occupational safety and health, employee privacy and wage & hour laws. It will also examine constitutional and whistle-blower protections and the employment-at-will doctrine and exceptions.

Text: Labor and Employment Law: Text and Cases (14th Ed.) by David P. Twomey (“Twomey”)

Supplemental readings will be distributed in class or will be available on Rutgers SAKAI, which you may access at http://sakai.rutgers.edu. To log on, enter your Rutgers ID and password in the upper right hand corner. Click on the tab: 37:575:315:02. Click on modules on the menu on the left hand side of the page.

The syllabus, schedule and assignments are subject to change as the semester evolves.

Course Requirements

1. Read entire syllabus and make sure you understand it. This is your contract with the instructor.

2. Be prepared for class. Always read the material assigned for a class before the class. Bring the material to class with you in case you need to refer to it. Check your email regularly for class announcements.

3. Be present and be on time. Students are expected to attend all classes; if you expect to miss one or two classes, please use the University absence reporting website https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra/ to indicate the date and reason for your absence. An email is automatically sent to me. Please note: My attendance policy is that every student begins with an “A” for attendance. However, the grade for attendance will decline each time a student is absent, late, or leaves early. If you are late or leave early, you will be charged with ½ class absence. If you have a legitimate reason for your absence, lateness or need to leave early, it must be provided to me in writing in advance.
or immediately after the occurrence. Even excused absences must be reported via the University absence reporting website indicated above.

4. Participate in discussions and group activities. Participation in class and in any group sessions is mandatory. Your participation in group discussions impacts your participation grade. Explain your views. Ask questions. Listen – don’t monopolize the discussion or ignore other views. Do your share of the work in all in-class group activities. Texting, talking on your phone, FB and Twitter are prohibited in class (unless part of the group activity).

5. Take careful lecture notes. Copies of any power points will be posted on Sakai. You should obtain lecture notes from another student if you miss a class. These are not provided by the instructor or by teaching assistants.

6. Academic Integrity: Academic integrity requires that all academic work be the product of an identified individual or individuals. Join efforts are legitimate only when the assistance of others is explicitly acknowledged and permitted by the assignment. Ethical conduct is the obligation of every member of the university community, and breaches of academic integrity constitute serious offenses. Students must assume responsibility for maintaining honesty in all work submitted for credit and in any other work designated by the instructor of this course. Students are also expected to report incidents of academic dishonesty to the instructor or dean of the instructional unit.

Evaluation and Grading
For purposes of grading, there are three (3) components of this course:

1. Midterm Examination (30%)

2. Participation and Attendance (30%): There will be one written assignment during the semester worth 10% of the participation component of your grade.

3. Final Examination (40%)
