Overview

This course is designed to provide managers with the tools necessary to effectively lead individuals and teams in today’s complex organizational climate. Through role play, group exercises, discussion, case studies, video and reading; students will develop their leadership style and capability to supervise, motivate, build teams, manage group dynamics, communicate effectively, and deal with conflict. This course addresses key dimensions of leadership behavior: personal integrity, self-knowledge, vision, communication, organizational competence, and empowering people and teams.

Leadership skills can be learned, most people are not born leaders, as the myth would have it. (Myth: leaders are born, not made.) Everyone, at one time or another will have (or has had) the opportunity to be leader.

Many renowned leaders become known not so much for skills and knowledge which many others may also possess, but for their ability to apply those skills and knowledge when specific situations arose which required them.

It is also important to know the difference between management skills and leadership skills, and to separate them. Many managers are good at management, but are not leaders (the converse is sometimes also true.) Whereas managers’ tasks are more ‘control’ oriented, leadership skills are more involved with such things as inspiring followers, vision-creation, and abilities to listen, learn from experience, communicate well and assert themselves.

However, do not confuse the idea that managers cannot be leaders, they of course can be, but to be a manager-leader means enhancing what are considered the usual manager routine/protocol skills.

Clearly the building of relationships is also critical to the leadership role, as is building competence and credibility. Leaders also deal with different aspects of power and influence than managers do, and their values may differ from those of control based managers. Some leaders are likely to be more individualistic and stand out more than others, whereas others may be more conservative and relate more strongly to ‘the common person,’ yet still be acknowledged for their leadership effectiveness.

The ways in which leaders reason things out may often be different from those of managers whose work is largely based on following well-established tasks, routines and methods. In this course we will explore most of the aspects of what is described above, and will aim to do so through hands-on experiences.

Learning Objectives  After completing this course, the student will be able to:

Labor Studies and Employment Relations Department:
- Work productively in teams, in social networks, and on an individual basis.

School of Management and Labor Relations:
- Demonstrate an ability to interact with and influence others in a professional manner, and to effectively present ideas and recommendations.

Course Learning Objectives: At the end of the course, students will:

Leadership in the Workplace
Be able to define and state the differences between management and leadership skills.

Demonstrate leadership through course experience, discussions and individual journals

Understand the idea that 'leaders and followers' is ambiguous and that followers may be likely candidates for leadership roles

Through readings begin to specifically define leadership skills and relate to them personally either through direct observation(s) or personal and work experience(s)

Develop insight and understanding of their own potential(s) for leadership, as well as attitudes and behaviors which drive their development as leaders within their own organization(s), networks, and other activities

Demonstrate understanding of leadership skills as related to individual personal skills

Course Expectations

Conduct:
As a diverse community of learners, students must strive to work together professionally in a setting of civility, tolerance, and respect for each other and the instructor. Rules of behavior include but are not limited to the following:

- Conflicting opinions among class members are to be respected and responded to in a professional manner.
- Having a “healthy” and respectful disagreement with others is encouraged; we learn through other voices.
- There are to be no offensive comments, language or gestures.
- Students are expected to exhibit an appreciation for multinational and gender diversity and to develop management skills and judgment appropriate to such diversity in the workplace.

Assignments: <please review Canvas calendar for due dates>
- Complete all assignments on time; connect with the Instructor to review/clarify requirements in a timely manner.

Academic Integrity
All students are required to read the Rutgers Academic Integrity Policy. Plagiarism will not be tolerated. All material (sentences, paragraphs, etc.) taken from another source must be cited. No exceptions.

Course Outcomes:
1. Leadership in Teams: Given an organizational situation, identify strategies to develop, maintain, motivate, and sustain self-managed teams using concepts, theories and techniques of team leadership.

2. Collaboration in Teams: Given a case study or leadership situation, collect, assimilate, disseminate, and maximize the views of team stakeholders in order to reach defensible goals with minimal conflict.

3. Conflict: Given an organizational situation that requires interpersonal or interdepartmental action, identify situations of conflict, diagnose the impact of a variety of behaviors, and develop a plan for conflict resolution using evidence-based methods.

4. Ethics: Given an organizational setting, identify ethical and dilemma-resolution practices, and make evidence-based decisions that integrate personal, social, and corporate responsibility.

5. Communication: Communicate verbally and in writing to individuals and groups in a concise, clear, organized, and well-supported manner using formats and technology relevant to the organizational context.

6. Motivation: Given a leadership situation, identify workplace commitment theories to incorporate influences and power as a leader to motivate organizational stakeholders.

7. Research: Given an organizational need to evaluate and defend its actions or potential actions; select, analyze, and apply the assessment techniques, research methods, and/or analyses needed to evaluate and defend those actions based on evidence.

8. Knowledge and Understanding of the Field: Demonstrate competency in identifying and integrating the major concepts, theoretical perspectives, historical trends, and key figures in the field of organizational leadership.

9. Change: Evaluate the impact of change on organizations, organizational members, and other stakeholders and apply appropriate change models and theories to facilitate successful change.

10. Global diversity: Analyze and evaluate the involvement of diversity in leadership issues, with special attention to the implications of diversity for individuals, organizations, and societies.

11. Interpersonal Effectiveness: Achieve personal development and demonstrate positive relationship skills via effective communication, respect for others, and awareness of their impact on others.

Reading, Audio/Video Assignments

Students are required to review textbook chapters, along with videos, articles and other required reading. All required reading (articles) are available on the course shell or a link provided on the course shell.

Audio/Visual

Students are required to watch instructor generated video presentations as well as review weekly videos. All audio and video material is provided through links within the course shell.

Overall assessment (Individual projects, course project) involves whether or not the student has:
1. Grasped the content of required reading and audio/visual assignments.
2. Provided personal meaning and/or developed new perspectives on course topics.
3. Engaged in critical thinking by considering course content in relation to current events, past personal or work experiences and opportunities for professional growth.

NOTE: Students may share an outline (of their deliverables) with the instructor anytime during the semester for review and comment.

How to contact the instructor

If you have questions related to the course content such as clarification on assignments, projects, discussions, course activities, post your question in the relevant week's "Wrap-Up" Discussion forum. Unless you receive advance notification, I will check my email by 8 PM Eastern Time weekdays. If you send a comment or question, I will respond within 24 hours. This policy excludes Sundays and Holidays. If your inquiry is regarding your grades or late assignment submission, or any other personal reason that may impede on your learning and need to inform me, please email me through Canvas Inbox feature (left Navigation bar, red section).

Note: Please do not use your personal email account for any Rutgers and course-related correspondence. Messages sent to and from your personal (non-Rutgers email account) may end up in a Spam folder, or get hacked in cyberspace, consequently delaying response to your inquiry. Furthermore, if your personal email account provider’s server goes down or you encounter technical problems, Rutgers IT HelpDesk will not be able to help you. More importantly, it is the University’s Policy that you do not use your personal email for Rutgers related correspondence.

Special Needs Accommodations

Rutgers University welcomes students with disabilities into all of the University’s educational programs. In order to receive consideration for reasonable accommodations, a student with a disability must contact the appropriate disability services office at the campus where you are officially enrolled, participate in an intake interview, and provide documentation: https://ods.rutgers.edu/students/documentation-guidelines. If the documentation supports your request for reasonable accommodations, your campus’s disability services office will provide you with a Letter of Accommodations. Please share this letter with your instructors and discuss the accommodations
