Required textbooks for all students:

- Negotiation: Harvard Business Essentials Guide to Negotiation² Michael Wheeler. Harvard Business School Press Paperback: 208 pages, Harvard Business Press (July 1, 2003). ISBN-10: 1591391113 ISBN-13: 978-1591391111
- Influence: The Psychology of Persuasion Robert B. Cialdini. Harper Paperbacks; Revised edition (December 26, 2006). ISBN-10: 006124189X

Recommended (not required) for all students:

- Getting to Yes: Negotiating Agreement Without Giving In. Roger Fisher and William Ury. (No need to purchase this as I will provide in pdf format)
- Getting More: How You Can Negotiate to Succeed in Work and Life. 2012. Stuart Diamond. Three Rivers Press. ISBN-10: 0307716902

General: Negotiation is a social process that can be analyzed, understood, and modeled; it is a learnable and teachable skill set. Negotiators are made, not born, and skills can be improved and relearned throughout life. Improvements in negotiating behavior require a combination of intellectual training and behavioral skill development. Thus, the most effective approaches to teaching negotiations integrate both intellectual analysis and skill development. Each class meeting will be divided into two parts. The first part will focus on analysis relying mostly on lecture, and the second part will require students to participate in negotiation simulations and case analyses.

Format: During the pandemic, the classes will be delivered via Zoom in a live (synchronous) format. Recordings of each class will be made available for students who must be absent or have experienced technical difficulties.

² You should be aware of two errors in the Harvard Business Essentials book. The 5th bullet on page 45 links distributive bargaining with win-win bargaining. It should say win-lose bargaining. Also, on page 68, the first sentence should state integrative bargaining, not distributive.

Class Preparation and Participation: This course will require students to come prepared to class. There are two forms of preparation: readings and assignments. Students are expected to attend every class, and to be prepared and ready to participate. The grading relies heavily on the assignments. Students should complete all readings and assignments on time. Late assignments will not be accepted unless approved in advance.

Readings have been assigned to provide an understanding of activities just completed in class, or to set the stage for upcoming activities. A compilation of readings have been selected that combine analysis with detailed examples and applications. Students will be responsible for completing the reading assignments.

Assignments are cases, exercises, role-plays, and questionnaires that must be completed for class, or in between class periods. It is essential that students be prepared by reading the assigned case or briefing information and completing the required assignment or write-up.

	Grading
Assignments		1/3
Midterm Exam (closed book, timed)		1/3
Final Exam (closed book, timed)		1/3

Students are expected to be prepared for class, to attend every class, and to complete the required negotiation simulation exercises and write-ups. Most of the exercises will have a written preparation form and a debrief form for you to submit.

Absences: Attendance is required. Please report any absence in advance unless you have a sudden and unexpected illness or emergency. Do not call or email me directly to report an absence. Absences MUST be reported by using the university absence reporting website <https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra> to indicate the date and reason for your absence. An email will be automatically sent to me.

Office Hours: Students are strongly encouraged to take advantage of contacting me to discuss any matters of concern or interest. I am available to confer by phone during the pandemic. Students also have the option of contacting a Teaching Assistant for guidance.
