Classes meet Thursdays at 5:40 pm in room 137 at the Labor Education Center, Cook-Douglass Campus

General: Negotiation is a social process that can be analyzed, understood, and modeled; it is a learnable and teachable skill set. Negotiators are made, not born, and skills can be improved and relearned throughout life. Improvements in negotiating behavior require a combination of intellectual training and behavioral skill development. Thus, the most effective approaches to teaching negotiations integrate both intellectual analysis and skill development. Each class meeting will be divided into two parts. The first part will focus on analysis relying mostly on lecture, and the second part will require students to participate in negotiation simulations and case analyses.

Grading:

Grading formula:

Assignments	1/3
Midterm Exam	1/3
Final Exam	1/3

¹ This syllabus is subject to change.

Required Textbooks:

- All students:
 - Negotiation: Harvard Business Essentials Guide to Negotiation² Michael Wheeler. Harvard Business School Press Paperback: 208 pages, Harvard Business Press (July 1, 2003). ISBN-10: 1591391113 ISBN-13: 978-1591391111
 - Influence: The Psychology of Persuasion Robert B. Cialdini. Harper Paperbacks; Revised edition (December 26, 2006). ISBN-10: 006124189X
- Additional book required for grad students:
 - Getting to Yes: Negotiating Agreement Without Giving In.³ Roger Fisher and William Ury. (No need to purchase this as I will provide in pdf format)

Topics:

Negotiation planning and strategy, dilemmas and ethical considerations, negotiation style self-assessment, distributive and integrative bargaining, reservation point, best alternative to a negotiated agreement, zone of possible agreement, concessions, bundling, anchoring, hardball tactics, authoritative standards and norms, multiphase, multiparty, and multifaceted negotiations, the prisoner's dilemma, cultural and gender differences, interests vs. positions, reciprocity, leverage, prospect theory, endowment effect, agency, job offer negotiations

Readings:

From Negotiation: Harvard Business Essentials Guide to Negotiation:

- Four Key Concepts
- Preparation
- Table Tactics
- Tactics for Integrative Negotiation
- People Problems
- Die Hard Bargainers
- Structural Impediments
- The Power of Dialog
- When Relationships Matter
- Negotiating for Others

² You should be aware of two errors in the Harvard Business Essentials book. The 5th bullet on page 45 links distributive bargaining with win-win bargaining. It should say win-lose bargaining. Also, on page 68, the first sentence should state integrative bargaining, not distributive.

³ Please note that there is an error in the book, "Getting To Yes." On page 11, under the "Hard v. Soft Bargaining" comparison, the terms "make threats" and "make offers" are listed in the wrong columns. It should read as follows:

Make threats = hard bargaining
Make offers = soft bargaining

From Influence: The Psychology of Persuasion:

- Weapons of Influence
- Reciprocation
- Commitment and Consistency
- Social Proof
- Liking
- Authority
- Scarcity

Class preparation and participation: This course will require students to come prepared to class. There are two forms of preparation: readings and assignments. Students are expected to attend every class, and to be prepared and ready to participate. The grading relies heavily on the assignments. Students should complete all readings and assignments on time. In this class, as in real life, deadlines matter. If you have an emergency that prevents you from meeting a deadline, please contact me.

Readings have been assigned to provide an understanding of activities just completed in class, or to set the stage for upcoming activities. A collection of reading assignments have been selected that combine analysis with detailed examples and applications. Students will be responsible for completing the reading assignments.

Assignments consist of case simulations, exercises, role-plays, and self-assessment surveys that must be completed for class. It is essential that students be prepared by reading the assigned case or briefing information and completing the required assignment or write-up.

Students are expected to be prepared for class, to attend every class, and to complete the required negotiation simulation exercises and write-ups. Most of the exercises will have a written preparation and debrief form for you to submit.

Absences: Your presence is necessary for everyone's success in this course. Absences may impact your engagement with content and ideas shared in class, so I encourage you to remember this. Please be proactive in situations where you will be absent, if you experience an emergency, or anticipate a prolonged absence for any reason.

- Absences MUST be reported by using the university absence reporting website <https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra> to indicate the date and reason for your absence. An email will be automatically sent to me.

Office hours: Students are strongly encouraged to take advantage of meeting to discuss any matters of concern or interest. I am available to discuss issues before or after class, or by phone or zoom session most weekdays by appointment.

Communications: If you need to reach me for any reason, email is the best method (wmd3@smlr.rutgers.edu).

Use of electronic devices in class: Electronic devices are encouraged in class to support learning. Please be mindful that they do not serve as a distraction to you or those around you.

The Fine Print:

Rutgers University Disability Policy: Rutgers University welcomes students with disabilities into all of the University's educational programs. In order to receive consideration for reasonable accommodations, a student with a disability must contact the appropriate disability services office at the campus where you are officially enrolled, participate in an intake interview, and provide documentation: <https://ods.rutgers.edu/students/documentation-guidelines>. If the documentation supports your request for reasonable accommodations, your campus's disability services office will provide you with a Letter of Accommodations. Please share this letter with your instructors and discuss the accommodations with them as early in your courses as possible. To begin this process, please complete the Registration form on the ODS web site at: <https://ods.rutgers.edu/students/registration-form>.

Learning Objectives: The student is able to:

Labor Studies and Employment Relations Department:

- Apply employment relations concepts, and substantive institutional knowledge, to understanding contemporary developments related to work. (Goal 2).
- Work productively in teams, in social networks, and on an individual basis (Goal 13).

SMLR Learning Objectives

Three Core Areas for Success in SMLR

The curriculum in the programs within SMLR focus on different areas (ie. HRM, LSER) and levels of study (ie. UG, Masters', PhD). Across these programs, we strive to advance students cognitive skills and processes, their Knowledge of Theory and Application, and develop their professional skills.

- 1) Cognitive Skills and Processes
- 2) Knowledge of Theory, Practice, and Application
- 3) Professional Development

Cognitive Skills and Processes

The cognitive skills and process area reflects the goal for SMLR programs to help students develop skills central to lifelong learning and participation in society and the workplace.

I) Written & Oral Communication – Communicate effectively at a level and in modes appropriate to an entry level professional.

- Communicate complex ideas effectively, in standard written English
- Analyze and synthesize information and ideas from multiple sources to generate new insights
- Produce quality research papers with proper convention of attribution/citation
- Produce high quality executive summaries
- Make an argument using contemporary and/or historical evidence
- Present ideas and arguments in a logical and effective way

II) Quantitative Skills – Apply appropriate quantitative and qualitative methods for research workplace issues.

- Formulate, evaluate, and communicate conclusions and inferences from quantitative information
- Apply quantitative methods to analyze data for HR decision making including cost-benefit analyses, ROI, etc. (HRM)
- Apply qualitative methods appropriately, alone and in combination with quantitative methods

III) Research Skills – Demonstrate an ability to collect, analyze and synthesize information to make logical and informed decisions impacting the workplace. Use evidence to evaluate hypotheses, theories and approaches to workplace issues.

- Employ current technologies to access information, to conduct research, and to communicate findings
- Analyze and synthesize information and ideas from multiple sources to generate new insights
- Assess and critique relevant evidence and research findings
- Access high-quality historical, qualitative, and quantitative evidence or research
- Use evidence-based analysis to appraise the validity of various hypotheses, theories, and approaches to workplace issues

Knowledge of Theory, Practice and Application

The knowledge of theory and application area reflects the goal for SMLR programs to ensure that students learn the key theoretical and foundation areas of study in their domains and realize opportunities to apply that knowledge to practice situations.

IV) Theoretical Perspectives - Demonstrate an understanding of relevant theories and apply them given the background context of a particular work situation.

- Demonstrate an understanding of the practical perspectives, theories and concepts in their field of study
- Evaluate and apply theories from social science disciplines to workplace issues

V) Understanding Context - Evaluate the context of workplace issues, public policies, and management decisions

- Analyze the degree to which forms of human difference shape a person's experience of and perspectives on work
- Analyze a contemporary global issue in their field from a multi-disciplinary and intersectional perspective
- Analyze issues related to business strategies, organizational structures, and work systems
- Analyze issues of social justice related to work across local and global contexts (LSER)
- Analyze issues related to the selection, motivation, and development of talent in a local and global context (HRM)

VI) Application – Demonstrate an understanding of how to apply knowledge necessary for effective work performance

- Apply concepts and substantive institutional knowledge, to understanding contemporary developments related to work
- Understand the legal, regulatory and ethical issues related to their field
- Develop human resource management functional capabilities used to select, motivate, and develop workers (HRM)
- Understand the internal and external alignment and measurement of human resource practices (HRM)

Professional Development –

VII) Professional Development – Demonstrate an ability to interact with and influence others in a professional manner, and to effectively present ideas and recommendations

- Develop effective presentation skills appropriate for different settings and audiences
- Develop career management skills to navigate one's career
- Develop capabilities to work and lead in a multicultural and diverse environment
- Work productively in teams, in social networks, and on an individual basis
- Develop cultural agility competencies
- Demonstrate lifelong personal and professional development skills

Additional Course Objective(s) from the Instructor:

• Demonstrate an understanding of the reasons for workplace conflict, the types of dispute resolution procedures that are used in both the union and non-union workplaces and integrated conflict management systems.

Other Resources:

- a. Student resources – this link directs students to the appropriate resources if they are in need of help in the areas of (a) mental health, (b) academic coaching, and (c) financial assistance: <https://smlr.rutgers.edu/about-smlr/fall-2022-information-smlr-students>
- b. Scholarships – to ensure that all students are aware of SMLR's scholarship offerings, we encourage you to include a link to our scholarships on your syllabi: <https://smlr.rutgers.edu/academic-programs/scholarships>

Additional Course Objective(s) from the Instructor:

Demonstrate an understanding of key concepts including distributive and integrative bargaining, selecting the optimal bargaining style in accordance with the dual concerns framework, and effective preparation for negotiations.
