

Course Overview

In this course we will examine the evolving position of black workers in the US economy and explore the changes in access points and employment opportunities historically to present day.

The course will focus on varying degrees of structural, institutional and racial stratification in a larger society. We will examine social constructs of race and work. Discuss systemic patterns of exclusion and challenge common notions of how individuals succeed in the labor market.

Labor Studies and Employment Relations Department

- Demonstrate an understanding of the perspectives, theories and concepts in the field of labor and employment relations.
- Apply those concepts, and substantive institutional knowledge, to understanding contemporary developments related to work.
- Analyze the degree to which forms of human difference shape a person's experience of and perspectives on contemporary issues.

Course Delivery

There is no textbook for this course. Course delivery will consist of written lectures, research based papers and articles, videos, and/or audio files, and course assessment of materials presented. All required resource materials are located on Canvas. The instructor reserves the right to supplement substitute, and/or modify the listed reading elections.

Assessment of Weekly Written Questions and Online Forums

Weekly Written Questions are designed to ensure that you understand the reading or video presented. You will be asked to answer questions from the assignment on most weeks. Each question can be answered in 8 to 10 sentences.

Forums are interactive threaded discussions where students can communicate their insights and thoughts pertaining to a particular course topic, as well as learn from one another in the process.

Threaded discussions are also a means for the instructor to identify whether or not a student comprehends required reading and/or video assignments. Forums include instructor-generated questions and suggested topic areas for discussion, and student-to-student interaction.

Overall Criteria for Grading - Scores on the weekly assignments as well as the online forums reflect whether or not you have achieved an accurate understanding of the various readings and whether or not you reflect those ideas well in written English. There are three sets of criteria on which students are graded. Earning the highest number of points within each assignment requires following these best practices:

Content (50% of points)

- ✓ Content that relates to required/recommended course material is accurate and well developed.
- ✓ Questions are thoroughly answered and content is appropriate for the topic of inquiry.

- ✓ Content that indicates knowledge gained and potential for knowledge/skills to influence future thoughts/behavior is adequately linked to course materials (including any material brought into the course by a student). When required, citations are provided.

Reflection (40% of points)

- ✓ Answers indicate a high level of reflection and insight on topic.
- ✓ Critical thinking is evident.
- ✓ A strong desire to reflect on topics is evident.

Organization & Mechanics (10% of points)

- ✓ Writing is fluent and lively.
- ✓ All answers are presented in a professional manner: using appropriate grammar, sentence structure, and spelling.
- ✓ All ideas/thoughts are well communicated. Answers to all questions are concise/to the point.
- ✓ Engages in a high quality Internet search (when applicable). Instructions for completing assignment are followed.
