Course Introduction

This course introduces the important developments and themes in the history of work in the Americas from the period of initial contact between European, African, and Native American civilizations through the period of Reconstruction after the American Civil War. The approach of the course centers on the historical shifts that influenced the decisions that shaped early American concepts of work, including slavery, indentured servitude, free labor, and the rise and impacts of industrialization and the early labor movement.

Course Objectives

Core Curriculum: SCL, HST, WCr and WCd

- Explain the development of some aspect of a society or culture over time. (HST-1)
- Understand different theories about human culture, social identity, economic entities, political systems, and other forms of social organization. (SCL-1)
- Communicate complex ideas effectively, in standard written English, to a general audience, and respond effectively to editorial feedback from peers, instructors, and/or supervisors through successive drafts and revision. (WCr)
- Communicate effectively in modes appropriate to a discipline or area of inquiry; evaluate and critically assess sources and use the conventions of attribution and citation correctly; and analyze and synthesize information and ideas from multiple sources to generate new insights. (WCd)

School of Management and Labor Relations

- Communicate effectively at a level and in modes appropriate to an entry-level professional. (Goal I)
- Demonstrate an understanding of relevant theories and apply them given the background context of a particular work situation. (Goal IV)

Labor Studies and Employment Relations Department

- Demonstrate an understanding of the perspectives, theories and concepts in the field of labor and employment relations. (Goal 1)
- Make an argument using contemporary or historical evidence. (Goal 4)

Evaluation

Written assignments

You will write two papers this semester, on topics to be announced. Each accounts for 20% of your final grade. You will have the opportunity to submit a draft version for each assignment so that I (your instructor) can provide feedback. Based on the feedback, you then complete the final paper. There will be sign up sheet for individual consultation of your draft (via Zoom). Schedules will be announced.

Lateness Policy

I know you are responsible in submitting assignments on time. However, I also understand there may be circumstances that would prevent you from doing so. Please let me know in advance should you foresee any late submissions of your assignments.

In-Class Discussions

We will be discussing the topics in the course throughout the class. Your participation in the class discussions is part of your course grade so you are highly encouraged to participate.

Attendance

This is an in-person class so you are expected to attend each class, on time, for the duration of the meeting. Attendance also counts towards your course grade so do your best to be present. If you have extenuating situation, please reach out to me.
