Course Description: This course introduces the important development and themes in the U.S. labor movement from 1880 through World War II. We will take a close look at how American workers built labor unions, civil rights organizations, and social movements to defend their interests during wars, depressions, and periods of conflict with those who controlled wealth and capital. By focusing on these struggles, we will learn about some of the people, ideas, and institutions that shaped the labor movement, while also exploring the workplace and the economy in political, social, and cultural terms.

Skills development: This course meets the writing distribution requirement for the School of Arts and Sciences. In addition to developing writing skills through writing successive drafts, students will learn to provide constructive feedback to their peers. The course has additional writing instructors who will read and comment on drafts, meet with students for one-on-one conferences, and assess final papers. At the conclusion of the course, students will demonstrate an increase in their knowledge and skills in writing and revising academic essays. Specifically, students should be able to:

- Enter into a dialogue with specialists in a particular field of study,
- Read essays and extract and explain key points and terms,
- Organize a paper from thesis, to topic sentence, to conclusion,
- Interact with texts by using meaningful citations in their papers,

- Use a range of sentence structures, and
- Write meaningful, clear, and organized papers.

Learning Objectives: This course covers several School of Arts and Sciences (SAS), School of Management and Labor Relations (SMLR), and Labor Studies and Employment Relations (LSER) Department learning objectives.

School of Arts and Sciences:

Students will learn to:

HST-1: Explain the development of some aspect of a society or culture over time.

SCL-1: Understand different theories about human culture, social identity, economic entities, political systems, and other forms of social organization.

WCR: Communicate complex ideas effectively, in standard written English, to a general audience, and respond effectively to editorial feedback from peers, instructors, and/or supervisors through successive drafts and revision.

WCD: Communicate effectively in modes appropriate to a discipline or area of inquiry; evaluate and critically assess sources and use the conventions of attribution and citation correctly; and analyze and synthesize information and ideas from multiple sources to generate new insights.

School of Management and Labor Relations:

Students will learn to:

I: Communicate effectively at a level and in modes appropriate to an entry-level professional.

IV: Demonstrate an understanding of relevant theories and apply them given the background context of a particular work situation.

Labor Studies and Employment Relations Department:

Students will learn to:

I: Demonstrate an understanding of the perspectives, theories and concepts in the field of labor and employment relations.

4: Make an argument using contemporary or historical evidence.

Course Requirements:

1. Read the entire syllabus and make sure you understand it. This is your contract with your instructors.

2. Be prepared for class. Always complete any reading, discussion, and writing assignments by their due dates. Check your email regularly for class announcements.
3. Participation. For most weeks of this course, we will have in-person class meetings (or have synchronous class meetings on Zoom should we have to go remote). Students are expected to be on time and fully participate in every class meeting. This involves lectures, reading texts, watching films, participating in discussions, and completing in-class assignments. Use of laptops, phones, and tablets is not permitted in the classroom. Attendance and participation is graded.
4. Absences due to illness. If you are experiencing symptoms of COVID-19 or any other transmissible disease (cold, flu, etc.), or have been told to quarantine, you must remain at home and not attend in-person class meetings. Please report absences in writing in advance or as soon as possible using the University absence reporting website <https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra/>. Medical documentation is not required for reporting absences. Students with excused absences will be able to make up missed course work.
5. Academic Integrity: Academic Integrity and use of Chatbots and AI: Academic integrity requires that all academic work be the product of an identified individual or individuals. Joint efforts are legitimate only when the assistance of others is explicitly acknowledged and permitted by the assignment. Ethical conduct is the obligation of every member of the university community, and breaches of academic integrity constitute serious offenses. Students must assume responsibility for maintaining honesty in all work submitted for credit and in any other work designated by the instructor of this course. Students are also expected to report incidents of academic dishonesty to the instructor or dean of the instructional unit.

In concert with Rutgers' code of conduct, which mandates "that all work submitted in a course, academic research, or other activity is the student's own and created without the aid of impermissible technologies, materials, or collaborations," this course has been designed to promote student learning, critical thinking, skills, and intellectual development without reliance on unauthorized technology including chatbots and other forms of "generative artificial intelligence" (AI). Although students may use spell-check and simple grammar-check in crafting assignments, they may not use chatbots and other forms of AI, including ChatGPT, Google Gemini, Microsoft Copilot, Grammarly, and others. Students will also complete academic integrity checklists before submitting papers. Please consult with the instructor to ask questions about permissible and non-permissible use of technology in this course. For more information on the Rutgers University Academic Integrity Policy, see <https://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/>

6. Copyright: The instructor for this course holds the copyright to the course teaching materials, including lecture slides, discussion questions, exams, and assignments. The copyrights to the readings and films belong to their rights holders (authors, producers, publishers, etc.). Students may not copy or distribute this material without the permission of the instructor. Unauthorized distributions of course materials are serious offenses. For more information on the Rutgers University Copyright Policy, see <http://policies.rutgers.edu/sites/policies/files/50.3.7-current.pdf>

7. Disability Statement: Rutgers University welcomes students with disabilities into all of the University's educational programs. In order to receive consideration for reasonable accommodations, a student with a disability must contact the appropriate disability services office at the campus where you are officially enrolled, participate in an intake interview, and provide documentation: <https://ods.rutgers.edu/students/documentation-guidelines>. If the documentation supports your request for reasonable accommodations, your campus's disability services office will provide you with a Letter of Accommodations. Please share this letter with your instructors and discuss the accommodations with them as early in your courses as possible. To begin this process, please complete the registration form on the ODS web site: <https://ods.rutgers.edu/students/common-forms>
8. Statement on Academic Freedom: Freedom to teach and freedom to learn are inseparable facets of academic freedom. This course will introduce an array of sometimes-conflicting ideas and interpretations of U.S. history, and all who partake in the course should feel encouraged to express their views in an open, civic forum.
9. Missed Exams: All students are expected to take the scheduled final at the designated date, time, and location.
10. Canvas: This course uses the Rutgers Canvas course management system, accessible at <https://canvas.rutgers.edu>. Click "NetID Login" on the right side of the main Canvas site. Once you log in, you can access the course site by clicking the "Courses" tab. The course site features the syllabus and weekly modules with the reading, viewing, and writing assignments.
11. Paper Assignments: All paper drafts, peer reviews, and writing conferences be completed for full credit. You will submit all drafts of your papers electronically on Canvas and they will be checked using Turnitin.
12. Lateness Policy: All late paper assignments will be marked down 10 points for every 24-hour period they are late. All drafts, peer reviews, and writing conferences have point values. If you have a severe personal emergency that makes it impossible for you to meet the deadlines, please contact your instructors.
13. Open Access and Affordable Textbooks Program: This course has received an Open and Affordable Textbooks Program award from the Rutgers University Libraries. The OAT Program supports textbook affordability at Rutgers by encouraging courses to adopt educational materials that are freely available, available at a low cost (compared to similar courses), or part of the Rutgers University Libraries' electronic collections, and thereby free of charge to Rutgers University students. As a student in this course, you will be asked to provide feedback on this initiative at the end of the semester. The assigned course readings include the open-access edition of the textbook Who Built America?: Working People and the Nation's History published by the American Social History Project and Center for Media and Learning at the City University of New York, the Labor Studies and Work open-access book series published by the Temple University Press and Libraries, and other materials. The assigned films have been licensed for streaming by the Rutgers University Libraries. All of these course materials are available to Rutgers students free of charge.
14. Assignment Points: Assignments are assigned points (up to 1,000 total points for all course assignments)

Attendance and participation: 200 points (100 points for mid-semester grade and 100 points for end of semester grade)

Paper 1: 300 points (25 points for the first draft and peer review; 25 points for the second draft and writing conference; 250 points for the final draft)

Paper 2: 300 points (25 points for the first draft and peer review; 25 points for the second draft and writing conference; 250 points for the final draft)

Final Exam: 200 points

16. Final Grades: Here is how the 1,000 point grade scale translates into final letter grades:

900 to 1000 points = A	850 to 899 points = B+	750 to 799 points = C+	600 to 699 points = D
	800 to 849 points = B	700 to 749 points = C	0 to 599 points = F

The syllabus, schedule, and assignments are subject to change as the course evolves.
