Office Hours by Appointment

Description: This course is designed to introduce master's students to research and findings in the fields of labor studies, employment relations, and human resources and to raise significant philosophical questions that lie at the core of the discipline. It is also designed to help students strengthen their analytical and writing skills. It will provide students with an opportunity to virtually "meet" many SMLR faculty discussing their areas of interest. This course uses Chicago Style for citations.

Our online course week runs from Thursday at 10 a.m. to Wednesday evening at midnight. The syllabus, including assignments, readings, and discussions, is subject to change at the professor's discretion.

Learning Objectives:

Students who successfully complete this course will meet the following official learning objectives of SMLR and MLER:

- Communicate effectively at a level and in modes appropriate to an entry-level professional. (Goal I)
- Demonstrate an understanding of relevant theories and apply them given the background of a particular work situation (Goal IV)

In addition, successful students will also meet the following course-specific goals:

1. Deepen their understanding of key historical and current workplace and social issues through exposure to a variety of research topics and methods;
2. Explore the ethical implications of alternative employment systems and

- relationships;
3. Develop and improve analytical and writing skills;
 4. Be introduced to a number of faculty and through them to the scope of the MLER program so that they can make more informed choices about future course work and research sponsors;
 5. Create a culture of open discussion, constructive criticism, and active collaboration between and among faculty and students.

Themes: In addition to the topics to be covered by the online presentations from other Rutgers faculty described below, the course will also address questions and concerns that illuminate key professional issues in the area of labor studies and employment relations. These continuing conversations will help tie the different parts of the course together and accustom students to asking the most searching questions possible about the material under discussion.

Course Materials: Each week, you will have access to the videos, readings, and other materials on the Canvas site. Please note that occasional additional readings and/or other materials may also be posted that will help ground our exploration of key topics in labor and management relations.

Final Exam and Course Wrap Up

- The Final Exam will be a timed essay exam. Students will answer four out of six essay questions. It is an open book exam, and you will have two hours to complete the exam. You will have from Monday, April 25 at 10 a.m. through Wednesday, April 27 at midnight to complete the exam. Once you begin the exam, you must complete it and cannot pause.

Course Expectations, Grading, and Assignments:

Introduction:	20 points
Forum Discussion 1:	40 points
Forum Discussion 2:	40 points
Forum Discussion 3:	40 points
Forum Discussion 4:	40 points
Forum Discussion 5:	40 points
Short Paper #1:	200 points
Short Paper #2:	230 points
Final Exam:	350 points

Total Points Available: 1000 points

1) Forum Discussion Posts

Follow the instructions for each Forum Discussion Post as they will vary. You may write a brief reflection on the assigned readings, complete a hypothetical, or answer the question/s posed. You must also write a couple of paragraphs that raise questions and respond to the comments previously raised by others in the seminar.

Forty points are available for each Forum Discussion. Twenty for your original post, due by Sunday at midnight, and 20 points for your responsive posts to other students due by Wednesday at midnight.

2) Written Assignments:

Short Paper #1: Reflective Essay You will prepare a short 2-3 page paper exploring how one of the problems identified in Week One would be viewed differently from an IR or HR perspective. Make sure to identify the problem clearly and discuss why it is a problem. Please use proper citations.

Short Paper #2: Persuasive Policy Essay A 3–4-page short written speech (as if to the membership of an organization), or written testimony (as if to a legislative committee), the purpose of which is to secure support for a specific policy proposal. You should choose an issue that you feel strongly about, but it must be relevant to our field and draw upon materials from this course.

You need to go beyond your own experience to support your proposal with credible scientific research or similar authority. The essay or testimony needs to: (a) define the problem that the proposed policy or program is supposed to address; (b) describe the proposed solution; and (c) provide factual evidence to support the claims that your proposal warrants the group's attention and support.

Think of this assignment as testimony to a legislative committee, a union, a corporate lobbying firm, or a public interest organization. Define your audience for this essay. This essay must include a bibliography and relevant citations.

3) Final Exam

The final exam will be a timed essay exam drawn from all of the topics for the course. Students will answer five out of six essay questions. You will receive credit for only the first five answers. You will have two hours (180) minutes to complete the exam. The exam uses Turnitin. While I do not expect full citations in the exam, you should use references to any material you cite.

Plagiarism: The extensive use of another person's ideas without proper citation is plagiarism and unacceptable. It can result in a failing grade and disciplinary action through University channels. The same is true for any other form of cheating. For information about the proper citation of written and web-based material, please read "Documenting Sources" and "Correct Forms for Citation," available on the Canvas site for this course. For this class, we will use the Chicago Style.

Students with Disabilities: Rutgers University welcomes students with disabilities into all of the University's educational programs. To receive consideration for reasonable accommodations, a student with a disability must contact the appropriate disability services office at the campus where you are officially enrolled, participate in an intake interview, and provide documentation: <https://ods.rutgers.edu/students/documentation-guidelines>. If the documentation supports your request for reasonable accommodations, your campus's disability services office will provide you with a Letter of Accommodations. Please share this letter with your instructors and discuss the accommodations with them as early in your courses as possible. To begin this process, please complete the registration form on the ODS web site at: <https://ods.rutgers.edu/students/registration-form>.

Portfolios: All participants in this seminar will oversee an individual portfolio project where early drafts and assignments are posted to Canvas. This will allow you to note progress in terms of your mastery of key topics and skills sets as you continue through the MLER program. This format may also be a valuable asset as when you enter the job market or transition to new employment settings as it demonstrates your abilities and strengths gained at the graduate level.
