Required textbooks for all students:
• Negotiation: Harvard Business Essentials Guide to Negotiation\textsuperscript{2}

• Influence: The Psychology of Persuasion

Additional required textbooks for all grad students:
• Getting to Yes: Negotiating Agreement Without Giving In. Roger Fisher and William Ury. (No need to purchase this as I will provide in pdf format)

Recommended (not required) for all students:

General: Negotiation is a social process that can be analyzed, understood, and modeled; it is a learnable and teachable skill set. Negotiators are made, not born, and skills can be improved and relearned throughout life. Improvements in negotiating behavior require a combination of intellectual training and behavioral skill development. Thus, the most effective approaches to teaching negotiations integrate \textsuperscript{1}This syllabus is subject to change.

\textsuperscript{2}You should be aware of two errors in the Harvard Business Essentials book. The 5th bullet on page 45 links distributive bargaining with win-win bargaining. It should say win-lose bargaining. Also, on page 68, the first sentence should state integrative bargaining, not distributive.
both intellectual analysis and skill development. Each class meeting will be divided into two parts. The first part will focus on analysis relying mostly on lecture, and the second part will require students to participate in negotiation simulations and case analyses.

Class Preparation and Participation: This course will require students to come prepared to class. There are two forms of preparation: readings and assignments. Students are expected to attend every class, and to be prepared and ready to participate. The grading relies heavily on the assignments. Students should complete all readings and assignments on time. Late assignments will not be accepted.

Readings have been assigned to provide an understanding of activities just completed in class, or to set the stage for upcoming activities. A collection of reading assignments have been selected that combine analysis with detailed examples and applications. Students will be responsible for completing the reading assignments.

Assignments are cases, exercises, role-plays, and questionnaires that must be completed for class. It is essential that students be prepared by reading the assigned case or briefing information and completing the required assignment or write-up.

Students are expected to be prepared for class, to attend every virtual class, and to complete the required negotiation simulation exercises and write-ups. Most of the exercises will have a written preparation and debrief form for you to submit.

Absences: Attendance is required. Please report any absence in advance unless you have a sudden and unexpected illness or emergency. Do not call or email me directly to report an absence. Absences MUST be reported by using the university absence reporting website https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra to indicate the date and reason for your absence. An email will be automatically sent to me.

Office Hours: Students are strongly encouraged to take advantage of meeting to discuss any matters of concern or interest. I am available to discuss issues by phone or zoom session most weekdays by appointment.

The Fine Print:

Rutgers University Disability Policy: Rutgers University welcomes students with disabilities into all of the University’s educational programs. In order to receive consideration for reasonable accommodations, a student with a disability must contact the appropriate disability services office at the campus where you are officially enrolled, participate in an intake interview, and provide documentation: https://ods.rutgers.edu/students/documentation-guidelines. If the documentation supports your request for reasonable accommodations, your campus’s disability services office will provide you with a Letter of Accommodations. Please share this letter with your instructors and discuss the accommodations with them as early in your courses as possible. To begin this process, please complete the Registration form on the ODS web site at: https://ods.rutgers.edu/students/registration-form.

Learning Objectives. The student is able to:

Labor Studies and Employment Relations Department:
- Apply employment relations concepts, and substantive institutional knowledge, to understanding contemporary developments related to work. (Goal 2).
- Work productively in teams, in social networks, and on an individual basis (Goal 13).

School of Management and Labor Relations:
- VI. Application – Demonstrate an understanding of how to apply knowledge necessary for effective work performance. Applying negotiating skills effectively is essential in employment relations, not only in collective bargaining, but also in the course of many organizational activities.
- VII. Professional Development – Demonstrate an ability to interact with and influence others in a professional manner, and to effectively present ideas and recommendations. Superior negotiators interact with and influence others in a professional manner.

Additional Course Objective(s) from the Instructor:
Demonstrate an understanding of key concepts including distributive and integrative bargaining, selecting the optimal bargaining style in accordance with the dual concerns framework, and effective preparation for negotiations.
