COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Leadership theory and its application to work organizations, including unions, non-profits and businesses. Leadership of small groups and large organizations; leadership diversity and development.

SMLR LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

VI) Application – Demonstrate an understanding of how to apply knowledge necessary for effective work performance

Ability to apply various forms of leadership skills in the contexts of organizations including labor unions, non-profits, and various types of business.

VII) Professional Development – Demonstrate an ability to interact with and influence others in a professional manner, and to effectively present ideas and recommendations

Develop the professional skills and competencies required of various forms of leadership in order to effectively apply them to issues of the workplace.

ASSESSMENT OF LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

Assessment will be based on the students’ demonstration of leadership skills in exercises and also on their knowledge of and application of leadership theories in case studies and exams.

TYPICAL COURSE REQUIREMENTS*:

- In class and virtual exercises 30%
- Journal entries 20%
- Team Case Analysis Presentation 20%
- Exams 30%