This course provides an overview of employment law, including employment-at-will and its exceptions; employment discrimination on the basis of race, color, sex, national origin, religion, disability and age; Family Medical Leave Act; drug testing; and workers’ compensation.

Course Requirements:
This is an introductory course in employment law. Students will be held responsible for reading for each class and be prepared to discuss it during class. Class discussion will be based on a close reading of legal materials, so it is necessary for students to bring the assigned reading material to class.

There will be an in-class mid-term exam (50%) and an in-class second (final) exam (50%). Grades will be based on performance on the two exams and on class participation/attendance. Please note that excessive unexcused absences will lower your grade.

Course Materials: Course reading materials are available in the Sakai “Resources” and “Announcements” sections. Please be sure to print them out. The Instructor reserves the right to supplement, substitute, and/or modify the listed reading selections.

Laptop/Recording Policy: Students are permitted to bring and use laptop computers in class, for taking notes and viewing class readings. However, please do not engage in laptop-related activities that may distract other students. Students are not permitted to record, videotape, or photograph any classroom lecture or activity, absent prior express consent and authorization by the Instructor.
