COURSE OBJECTIVES

• To familiarize students with the judicial legal process and reasoning;

• To examine fundamental issues of employment law, including: the employment at-will doctrine and its exceptions; the various rights, duties and responsibilities employees and employers have towards each other and the general public; and employment discrimination on the basis of race, color, sex, national origin, religion, disability and age. Additional issues may, time willing, include worker protections such as the Family Medical Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, and Worker’s Compensation.

• To provide students with the tools for further study of employment regulation.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

• This is an introductory undergraduate course in employment law. However, it emphasizes student participation and group discussion. Students will be held responsible for reading and understanding all assigned materials, as well as participating fully in all class discussions. Attendance is a must, and failure to attend class will result in a poor “Class Attendance & Participation” grade.
