Course Description:
Examination of the social dynamics of economic institutions and their corresponding work relations; corporate organization and union structure; selected problems of technological change; human relations in industry and the changing bases of managerial authority.

Important information:
This class is suitable for both majors and minors. In recent years, a primary focus has been on the social dynamics of small groups within workplaces; students gain skills in group dynamics though a series of exercises, as well as through readings and discussion. It also counts as an elective for the HRM major.

Learning Objectives. The student is able to:

Labor Studies and Employment Relations Department:

- Work productively in teams, in social networks, and on an individual basis (Goal 13).

School of Management and Labor Relations:

- Demonstrate an ability to interact with and influence others in a professional manner, and to effectively present ideas and recommendations (Goal VII).

Assessment of student success in meeting learning objectives:
Typically a rubric is applied to particular essay or short answer questions on the final exam for this purpose.

In addition, grades are also based on student performance on a paper that is written by a small group, on performance in exercises, discussions and other assignments.